Content: Visual supports are tools that are used to increase the understanding of language, environmental expectations, and to provide structure and support for individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders. Visual supports can be provided in a variety of ways across multiple settings. During the workshop, we will explore the many uses for Visual Supports within the school setting. Attendees will have an opportunity to create several visual supports that would be appropriate for their classroom or therapy needs (make-and-take). This presentation will be hands-on, interactive, and will offer practical applications and tools of this evidence-based practice.
